

DIRECT VOTE MEASURE IS BEATEN IN SENATE TODAY

BOTH SENATORS FROM WISCONSIN VOTED FOR THE MEASURE WHEN IT CAME UP THIS AFTERNOON

THE LORIMER MATTER IS UP

Opponents To the Illinois Man Have Indulged in Over Thirty Hours of Filibuster To Prevent A Vote.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—All night long the Senate struggled with the Lorimer case his friends seeking to break down the determination of his opponents not to permit votes unless important concessions were made them in relation to important measures of pending legislation.

At 8:19 this morning a recess was taken until eleven and it was announced there was chance for an agreement to be reached.

The basis for the proposed agreement is understood to be that a vote be taken on the Lorimer case at a fixed hour Thursday and that at a later hour the same day vote be had on permanent tariff bill.

Some Demands.
That the amendment to the post-office appropriation bill proposing increase of postal rates on advertising section of magazines be eliminated and that still other concessions be made.

At one time it was suggested the agreement might be reached by division which would permit vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement with pledge in advance that enough members pledged to vote for commercial pact would submit themselves and unopposed to a vote.

Compromise Failed.
When the senate reconvened it was stated that all efforts to effect a compromise had failed.

Immediately after reconvening Senator Dillworth rose to resume his speech against Senator Lorimer, but gave way to Senator Money, who declared the responsibility for the present situation lay with the republicans.

He appealed for an abandonment of the filibuster and a resumption of public business.

Senator Newlands spoke briefly, concurring in Money's views about the filibuster.

Again Adjourned.
At 11:50 a. m. per arranged agreement, the senate adjourned until 11:50 to close yesterday's legislative day, and provide for a vote on the direct election of senators.

The senate then reconvened at 11:50 a. m.

Several of the senators insisted upon the reading of the journal in full, determined no unanimous consent to its omission should sacrifice any possible parliamentary advantage involving the existing agreement to vote on the resolution for the direct election of senators.

The journal was unusually voluminous.

The reading was concluded and at 12:10 the roll call began on the direct election of senators.

Bill Defeated.
By a vote of 54 yeas, to 33 nays, the senate then defeated the resolution for the popular election of United States senators. It was not necessary to have the two-thirds vote.

Of the Illinois delegation Senator Callom voted for, and Lorimer against the resolution.

Lorimer's Coup.
Senator Lorimer then arose unexpectedly and read telegrams from former Speaker Shurtliff of Illinois and Representatives Brownback and Ford of the Illinois legislature, in relation of Senator Crawford's statement yesterday that Governor Bennett did attempt to control the organization of the legislature in 1905.

Filibuster Again.
After the short respite for the vote on the resolution for the election of senators and a little miscellaneous business, the filibuster to prevent a vote on the Lorimer case having rounded twenty-four hours at noon, was resumed full blast in the senate this afternoon with no cessation.

At the moment the resolution to unseat Lorimer became the order of the day, Senator Stone (Dem. Mo.) unleashed an attack on Lorimer. Vice President Sherman called a roll call and finished the filibuster.

Senator Owen (Dem. Okla.) was ready to follow Stone and Dillworth (Rep. Kan.) was on the program for the conclusion of Owen's speech.

Stone was still speaking at 3:30 and there was nothing to indicate the intention he was soon to cease.

May Compromise.
It is said an agreement was reached this afternoon for a meeting between republican regulars and progressives and the democratic leaders to be held at 4:30 o'clock to decide on a compromise plan to check the filibuster in the senate.

It was decided to consider the disposal of the Lorimer case and the permanent tariff board. No mention was made of the reciprocity agreement which President Taft demands at the price of an extra session.

La Follette Session.
During the afternoon it developed that Senator La Follette was the chief

The association will do not only publicly work but actual development of the lands in question.

As an example, there will be a land-clearing contest about June 1. The $500 fund has appropriated $25,000 to develop a machine to enter this contest. It will be a contest of elimination, southern Wisconsin being pitted against other sections of the state, and the prize awarded the section clearing the most and in a given time. The prize will be $1,000. Power may be by hand, motor and traction engine.

The association has established a lecture bureau and Mayor John La Monte, Watons, is now giving a series of illustrated lectures throughout Illinois. J. F. Kadamsky, Watons, Prof. Meyer of the Missouri agricultural school, and others who will join the lecturing staff. Regular headquarters are maintained at the Washington street, Chicago, where exhibits of northern Wisconsin products are on display and literature is distributed.

This movement is one of the owners of the land themselves, and they have agreed to subscribe large amounts to advertise the country if the state will help in the development. Already the college of agriculture and state board of immigration are in active cooperation to this end.

The newspapers, banks, commercial bodies and other agencies will be made interested in the movement. It is proposed to develop new towns and cities industrially as well as to promote rural settlement. This is said to be the first general, organized movement for the development of northern Wisconsin. Funds will be raised for a three years campaign. Madison, Wis. is the center of the publicity work. It is planned to start an official paper at a later date.

FIRE THREATENED MILTON JUNCTION HOSTELRY TODAY

Wall Hotel, the Old Morgan House, in Which Depots Are Located Visited by Fire This Afternoon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton Junction, Feb. 28.—Fire threatened the destruction of the Wall hotel, formerly known as the Morgan House, which in years past was owned by James Gage, shortly after one o'clock this afternoon.

The cause of the fire was ascribed to a defective chimney, and caught in the attic of the building. The blaze had gained a dangerous headway when it was first discovered and the volunteer department was called.

Their efforts proved futile and it was evident that the structure was doomed unless something was accomplished at once. A connection was made with the Metropolitan water-works and the flames were finally extinguished before they had made much headway in the other parts of the building.

Considerable water had to be used in putting out the fire and a large amount of property was damaged by the water as well as the flames. The roof was badly burned in places and holes were made in various parts in order to fight the flames more effectively. An exact figure could not be obtained as to the extent of the damage.

The hotel is located at the junction of the Northwestern and St. Paul tracks and is used as a depot by both companies. The wind was blowing quite hard and several buildings in the immediate vicinity were also in extreme danger of taking fire. The prompt action of the firemen, however, with the aid of the lead from the hydrant, was effective in stopping a spread of the flames to houses adjacent.

TELLS STORY OF ILLINOIS SHAME

STATES ATTORNEY WAYMAN BEFORE THE ROCK COUNTY BAR ASSOCIATION.

DEFENDED OWN CONDUCT

In Handling Tales of Bribery and Corruption of Witnesses Before Chicago Grand Jury.

Seventy members of the Rock County bar association, judges of the supreme and circuit courts of the state, laymen from Janesville, Beloit and Evansville heard last evening the state story of the inception of the now famous Lorimer investigation from the lips of John B. Wayman, states attorney for Cook County, Illinois.

Coming as it did, while the Senate of the United States is still disputing over the merits of the case, the newspaper filled with the details of the alleged unsavory doings of a state legislator, Mr. Wayman's talk was most timely. His subject was to have been "The Public and the Courts" and perhaps the White investigation most clearly portrayed the machinations of the courts and of investigations, at least the speaker used it to illustrate his text.

Mr. Wayman's address came after the association, and their guests, had enjoyed a most delightful banquet in the large dining room of the Myers hotel. A long table had been set across the north end of the room, where sat the toastmaster, A. L. Matheson, Mr. Wayman, Judges W. C. Timlin and J. C. Kerwin of the state supreme court, and other invited guest and distinguished members of the local bar association.

Potted plants stood on each table and with the shining electric lamps, faultless service and a delightful music of the Orpheus quartette, the banquet was one long to be remembered. The committee in charge consisted of M. P. Richardson, chairman, Louis G. Avery, C. J. Hendricks and J. L. Peterson, had made every preparation necessary for the enjoyment of the guests and members of the association and before the evening's speaking began, were given a vote of thanks by the toastmaster for the efficient manner in which they had prepared everything.

In introducing Mr. Wayman, the toastmaster made most pleasing references to former meetings of the association, to the addresses given by George R. Peck, J. Hamilton Lewis, George R. Peck, J. Hamilton Lewis, two years ago and a year ago, and then congratulated the bar association upon having secured the services of John B. Wayman, the states attorney of Cook County for the address of last evening.

Mr. Wayman explained that he had been invited to talk before the association which was famous throughout the country, with some trepidation but had been assured by George R. Peck that he had nothing to fear and had been further encouraged by the chairman of the arrangement committee by being permitted to select his own subject and had done so by deciding to relate the true facts of the investigation of the late Charles A. White, the self confessed bribe taker of the Illinois legislature and the steps he had taken to investigate the matter and bring the facts before the grand jury and the police.

Mr. Wayman's address was one of self defense of the calumny that have been directed at him for his part in the disclosure and one of the most important facts he brought out was that the alleged "third degree" which he is accused of having treated two of the most notable witnesses in the famous case, Brockmeyer and Link, was in reality only his endeavor to give the two accused men, then under indictment for perjury before the grand jury, an opportunity to clear themselves of that charge by telling the whole truth.

Mr. Wayman is a forceful speaker. He had a subject that was of vital interest to himself, of real national importance just at this time, and despite the fact much has been written on this topic for months past, his story, told simply, with the ring of truth, with no stage settings, the unfolding of one of the most gigantic plots of bribery and corruption ever disclosed, was impressive.

"In talking to lawyers upon the subject of law one is always upon dangerous ground," said Mr. Wayman in opening. "You have to assume, at least for the time being, that you know more of the law than anyone present, which of course, is a violent presumption. There is a certain assumption of hypocrisy about it when one lawyer assumes to educate another lawyer; we have to assume that we have explored depths that you have not explored and to have read decisions that you never read."

"In all history you will find that any government that ever existed on the face of the earth failed simply because of its form. The declaration of independence contained no word of criticism of the form of government of George the Third. In fact, the very men who in their patriotism drew that document believed in that form of government, because they were fresh from the old world they had all the traditions of the old world; they had no word of criticism of the form of government, but a criticism of the corruption of power and the violation of the principles of government by those in power. And it is not too much to say to you lawyers here tonight that what has been true of all government is true of this government—back of the government there must be the moral fiber of the people, and if there is not that, then this government will fall just as other governments have failed, and the form of government will not save it from the universal condemnation of mankind if bribery and corruption go unwhipped of justice and unchecked in their nefarious career."

With this introduction, Mr. Wayman then proceeded to tell of the first intimation he had of the story of Charles White, the tale which he was ready to tell to a grand jury, of having received bribes, both in Chicago and St. Louis, to cast his vote for William Lorimer for United States Senator from Illinois. It was an astounding tale. A story which became convinced of its truth, by confronting him, mentioned in the confession, with the facts and then upon finding their testimony was such that it warranted calling a grand jury to investigate, had proceeded with the investigation.

Little by little the story of the scenes in the St. Louis hotel, the famous bath room incident, when money of the alleged "jackpot" was distributed to Brockmeyer, Clark, Shoppard, Link and Link, the bringing of these men before the grand jury in Chicago, the stories they told at the time, how they contradicted themselves, denied having been in St. Louis on the dates mentioned and then when confronted with statements to the contrary, broke down and confessed without any coercion on his part, was all clearly portrayed.

It was an interesting tale that lost none of its snap and glory in the telling. It was the story of an achievement of one man who was fearless enough to defy the "powers" and go ahead to what he believed to be the best course. Mr. Wayman analyzed his own feelings as the testimony became clearer and clearer and took his hours with him through all his activity in the matter.

He paid his respects to the Senate of the United States in several very pointed remarks relative to their handling of the Lorimer matter at present and characterized their action as "too thin to bear the respect of coming generations of people." He spoke of the present attempt in Illinois to eradicate from its political system the corruption which will take years and years to do, "of the Lee Browne trial, which followed the grand jury investigation he dismissed with a sentence referring to it only indirectly by the statement" ending only with fixing of the jury. One remarkable statement came out in this connection and that was that in bribery and other offenses are admissible.

Mr. Wayman called upon the men of the Northwest to aid in giving liberty to men and government of men, rather than permitting to exist corruption and bribery in the halls of legislatures and courts. He believed progress could be made by exposing corruption and cleared by reading a tribute of Edward Everett, written in 1829, which appealed to the better elements of mankind in upholding the government.

Mr. Wayman had a subject that means his very political existence, his life's work, and he held his audience in a spell. He spoke of the "third degree" which he is accused of having treated two of the most notable witnesses in the famous case, Brockmeyer and Link, and brought out in such forceful language that it could be most clearly understood, it was not a mere matter of fact, that speech, it was from his heart and it told such a tale of corruption that one is not surprised the whole nation watches with anxiety the vote in the Senate of the United States to discover if Lorimer is to retain his seat or be dismissed for the alleged wrong doings of his trusted lieutenant in the Illinois legislature of 1903.

Following Mr. Wayman's address Judge Charles Field rose and thanked the speaker of the evening of his talk, and after a few happy remarks made the motion which was carried unanimously, that Mr. Wayman be elected an honorary member of the association which he had honored by addressing it.

Judge Kerwin was then called upon by Mr. Matheson and made a few remarks which were well received. Dr. Benton followed and proved a most clever talker even at a session of lawyers. William Smith, president of the association was called upon and the last speaker of the evening was Judge Grimm.

REPORT OF ANNUAL LIBRARY MEETING

Local Library Was Represented at the Meeting of State Association at Milwaukee.

Miss Lydia Kinsley, the local librarian, and Miss Green, student of the Wisconsin library school, were the Janesville representatives at the annual meeting of the State Association of Librarians at Milwaukee last week. Some one hundred and fifty members were present and the programs of the different sessions proved very interesting. One of the interesting addresses was given by Miss Lottie Starnes, chief of the traveling librarians of this state. Her subject was, "Books of 1910," and among the number she mentioned with favor, the following are in the Janesville library: Nathan Durke, Watts; Conservation of Natural Resources in the United States, Van Hise; Jim Hanks, Child; Promises of American Life, Croly; Star-gazers, Goodloe; Molly Make-believe, Abbott; The Rosary, Barlett; Everybody's Lonesome, Laughlin; Road to Providence, Dayke; and The last four were spoken of as good stories to be read aloud to all the members of the family.

EUGENIE TO SELL PROPERTY

Former Empress to Convert Estates Into Cash to Save Prince Victor Napoleon Worry.

Paris.—The Empress Eugenie, who is now in her eighty-fifth year, is selling all her property in the country over which she once held sway, in order that Prince Victor Napoleon, who was married the other day to Princess Clementine of Belgium, may have no difficulty in gaining possession of all that belongs to her after she passes away.

It is an open secret that she intends making her nephew, the imperial claimant to the throne of France, the principal heir to her great wealth, which has been estimated as high as $30,000,000. To relieve him of a reputation of those long drawn out and costly legal proceedings which worried her so much, forty years ago, when the newly formed French republic wanted to keep all the fallen emperor's domains, she wants to turn her landed properties in France into cash now, and leave him money.

Among the estates is that of the famous Solferino palace, in the south of France. That former imperial residence was to have gone under the hammer here recently, but the sale has been postponed, owing to a difference of opinion over the minimum sum which should be accepted. The empress does not want to part with the palace for less than $120,000, but that is considered excessive by her lawyers in view of the dilapidated condition of the chateau.

Solferino was built less than half a century ago to commemorate a celebrated French victory in the war of 1860. Originally in a bleak part of the sparsely populated department of the Midi, a whole village has since sprung into being around its walls. The emperor was hardly ever in residence there, and all its fittings and furniture were long ago taken away.

CHURCH RUNS A MILK ROUTE

Morningside Presbyterian Looks Out for Many Sick Babies of Poor—Unique Charity.

New York.—A church that runs a milk route, the only church that does so in New York, was dedicated the other day. It is the Morningside Presbyterian, at Morningside avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-second street, and the milk route is for sick babies of the very poor. For two years this unique charity has been maintained, serving usually 125 babies a day.

With the milk goes a trained nurse. She sees that the milk is modified and then she teaches mothers the best methods for infant treatment. The nurse gives her services. When the work has started there was opposition. Some thought it undignified for a church to modify milk and then it gave it away, or even to sell it. But dignity did not find favor with Morningside church authorities. Now it is such a success everybody favors it.

The late John A. Kennedy left to Presbyterians a large amount of money, and $30,000 of it went to the milk route church. The old building was rebuilt and a parish house erected. In this parish house are two assembly halls, a stage with scenery, a roof garden and many other things useful to serve a neighborhood. The pastor, the Rev. Allen W. McCurdy, said that if all of the needful applications for service were not in the new building it was because nobody had been able to think to include them.

INDIANA "DRYS" ARE WINNERS

First Elections Under New Proctor Option Law Are Held in Lawrence County.

Bedford, Ind., Feb. 28.—The three chief cities and towns in Lawrence county went "dry." Elections were held in Bedford, Mitchell, O'Neill and the townships of Shawnee, Guthrie, Marshall, Indian Creek, Bone and Spies Valley.

Bedford voted "dry" by 100 majority; Mitchell by 53; O'Neill, the stone quarry town, by 92, and all the townships voted to keep out the saloons for two years more.

The vote was heavy, and great interest was shown by both sides. The elections were the first held in the state under the new Proctor law.

GOTCH LOSES HANDICAP BOUT

Falls to Throw Three Men Within an Hour—Demetral Runs Instead of Wrestling.

New York, Feb. 23.—Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler of the world, failed under the conditions to throw three men, Mohl, Yankee Rogers and Demetral, at Sulzer's Harlem River casino and therefore lost the match.

Gotch was to throw each man within twenty-minute periods. He failed with Demetral, who, instead of wrestling, ran away from his antagonist, Mohl and Rogers were comparatively easy.

The form, if shaped with proper corseting, will retain its supple appearance and wonderful pliancy. The designs of Warner's Corsets possess this youthful shaping power. # THEATRE

THAMARA DE SKIRSKY, THE RUSSIAN DANCER, WHO WILL APPEAR AT THE MYERS THEATRE THURSDAY, MARCH 2.

Probably one of the most unique insurance policies ever made was recently issued through John Lauder, of Denver, to Countess Thamar de Skirsky, the celebrated Russian dancer. Miss de Skirsky is making a tour of the larger American cities. In order to get her signature to a contract for the season her managers were obliged to guarantee the dancer a large sum of money and to protect themselves against any accident that might occur. The managers left upon the plan of insuring the Countess' feet to the extent of $100,000.00. For any pedal disability which in the opinion of physicians prevents her from appearing in her dances, the company is obliged to pay $250 a week. For the loss of one foot the company must pay the sum of $50,000, and for the loss of both feet the full amount of the policy. If the injury should be sustained in an accident in a railway carriage, a motor car, or other conveyance, the policy doubles in value. The premium is $1,000.00 yearly. This famous article will appear at Myers Theatre, Thursday March 2.

JUDGE WANTS ACTS PROBED

Whitford of Denver Demands That Grand Jury Look Into Charge He Took Bribes.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 28.—Judge Gregory W. Whitford of the district court, who gained fame by sentencing striking miners to prison for contempt of court, demanded of the criminal division of the court that a grand jury investigation be made of the charge that he had accepted a bribe. The bribery charge was made by a witness at the legislative investigation of Judge Whitford, which is an outgrowth of the strike trouble.

A CHANCE FOR EVERYONE

One High Grade Newmann Bros. Piano Given Away Absolutely Free!

READ PARTICULARS

Big Advertising Offer Most Sensational On Record

MANY piano manufacturers spend several thousand dollars yearly for advertising their pianos, using all the different methods of advertising in newspapers and magazines, but the Newmann Bros. Co., whom I represent, have decided upon a different plan and for introductory purposes in Janesville will give away absolutely free a beautiful Newmann Bros. piano, style 20, the highest grade piano they make.

Here's the Plan How To Secure the Free Piano

STYLE 20.

This offer embraces the forming of a piano club of 25 members, for the purchasing of pianos. The person securing the largest number to join the club and purchase pianos is to have the Newmann Bros., style 20, given to them absolutely free. Everyone has an equal chance to win. The purchaser of a piano during this offer may apply that purchase on a final count and should this purchaser have the largest number of Club Members to his or her credit, the purchase price of the piano will be refunded or the original piano exchanged for the style 20.

Great Price Reductions On Pianos to Club Members. Save From $75 to $100.

Drastic and radical price reductions will be made to every club member during this club offer, which lasts for three months. The Newmann Bros. Co. are back of this offer and they have authorized me to make these great reductions in price, to club members only. It is to your advantage to join the club, if you think of purchasing a piano any time within the next year. It means a direct saving to you of anywhere from $75 to $100 on your piano purchase. There are no strings or conditions to this offer. It is a clean, dignified, honest proposition direct from the manufacturers and it means that someone gets a free piano and club members get their pianos at practically wholesale prices compared with prices asked for pianos of anywhere near the same grade, at other places. The pianos included in this offer are all brand new, modern and up-to-date in every respect, direct from the factory. Pianos are on display at our piano rooms now.

Newmann Bros. Pianos "Durable As A Diamond"

Newmann Bros. Pianos are noted for their sweet tone and great durability. Only the very best materials are used in the construction. Hammers, strings, felt, action, and all the many little things that go to make up a piano are the very best that money can buy. Expert and long experienced workmen are employed throughout the plant. There are no boys learning the trade at this plant.

Each Newmann Bros. Piano is sent out with a positive guarantee of 15 years.

Churches, Lodges, Schools, Societies Should Get Together and Secure the Free Piano For Their Rooms

The free offer is open to everyone. Anyone or everyone has an equal right to work for the free piano. The hustler wins in this proposition. Energy expended here will be well repaid. You have nothing to lose and you have got a chance to secure a beautiful, high grade piano free.

Sign the coupon below at once, before you forget it, and mail or bring to my office and you will get full particulars.

Sale opens Wednesday morning, March 1st.

Satisfactory and liberal terms of payment can be arranged.

THE DECISION.

Dispatches this morning announce that the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road has begun its retrenchment of resources, possibly because of the recent interstate commerce commission rulings as to freight rates and other dispatches announce that certain western roads are to build proposed lines regardless of this decision. The Wall Street Journal, the organ of the vested powers of the corporation in this country, representing the great gambling center of the United States, Wall Street, takes up the commission's ruling and handles it in the following manner:

"Much of the popular discussion of the two decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the now celebrated higher freight rate cases is based upon the assumption that the commission found as a fact that the railroads were not entitled to raise their rates. What the commission did was to express an opinion, founded upon the facts before it, that the carriers had not proved by a preponderance of evidence that the rate increases were necessary. Whether freight rates are generally too low or not is a question not of fact but of opinion. If one holds that the owners of well-conducted railroads are entitled to 6 or 7 per cent upon their share of capital and no more, one must also hold that the present rates are high enough, even under the existing conditions of higher operating cost. But if one holds that a liberal margin over the dividends should be allowed, to be devoted to preventing the capitalization of unproductive expenditure, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that some measure of increase in rates has become necessary.

"Wall Street hears from Washington that the decline of the stock market on the news of the decisions must have been due to a misapprehension of their import and effect, that Commissioner Lane's glowing account of what the western railroads have acquired in the past ten years should have put stocks up instead of down. Washington seems to imagine that Wall Street has heretofore been unaware of the recent fiscal history of American railroads, or else Washington itself supposes that it is the function of the stock market to divine and register the past. Stocks went down on the decisions not because Wall Street credulously swallowed the forebodings of the railroad president but because the decisions meant that, while existing freight rates and wage schedules endure, the railroads will have to content themselves with smaller surplus earnings than they have had in the recent past.

"Before the passage of the Mann-Elkins law the market prices of railroad stocks were made on the assumption, among others, that the railroads would be allowed to continue to earn substantial surpluses over their ordinary dividend requirements, so long as they were well and conservatively managed. The commission now declares that rates shall not be raised to offset, even in any part, the higher cost of operation, and thus to preserve the margin of safety over dividends. It follows incontestably that until some other factor of compensation, as, for instance, lower prices for equipment or lower wages, exerts its influence railroad stocks are intrinsically less valuable than they were before the commission laid what may prove the cornerstone of a national policy toward railroad investment. There was nothing unnatural or mistaken or ludicrous about Wall Street's reception of the decisions.

"If it is true that the Pennsylvania railroad management contemplates withdrawing the proposed rates at once and that some other railroads are about to follow suit, it is presumably because the managers of these roads wish to preserve their right to make another appeal to the commission within the ensuing two years, not because they do not honestly believe in their case."

POLITICAL CONTESTS.

With the entrance of James Ellfield into the field as a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor, added interest is given the coming spring election. Mr. Ellfield is a man of sterling worth, a business man of keen judgment, and if elected would give the city of Janesville a strong, sound business administration according to his own statement, devoting all his time to the affairs of the city, turning his own private business to the care of others, so as to be free of all entanglements.

Mr. Ellfield will doubtless be unopposed at the primaries and will be the regular republican nominee on election day. A life-long resident of Janesville, he will be backed by business men who know his integrity and honesty of purpose. He is a strong man and if elected would make a most excellent city official.

FIRE DRILLS.

For many years the Gazette has advocated fire drills in the city schools. Not more drills when the pupils are prepared for them. Not drill marching out in orderly lines as at recess, but real, genuine fire drills. No matter how careful the teachers are, no matter what precautions the school board take to make the buildings fire-proof or otherwise ward off the possibility of a conflagration, fires may occur. In La Crosse yesterday they had a fire in one of the public schools and the lives of several hundred children were saved by the fire drills they had been taught. It is peculiar that the heads of our educational departments do not look at this matter in the same light as does the layman. All the learning in the world would do no good if the lives of the little people were sacrificed through neglect. Think of it, fathers and mothers, and ask your children when they have had had a fire drill, tonight, and see what they say. Think whether the proper safeguards are being taken for their lives as well as for teaching them the rudiments of learning. Life is more important than books and the two are weighed in the same balance and if a few minutes a day or a week are lost by these drills, from study, it is time gained in teaching the children self-control in moments of excitement. Fire drills are imperative and the citizens should demand that they be held regardless of any whim of educators that they are foolish because we have never had a fire.

Chicago today is holding its primary which promises to develop some of the most startling facts of modern day politics. There are as many candidates as can well be crowded into one campaign and the "interests" are well represented so that the voter will catch it coming and going, no matter who wins.

It is all right for the citizens to criticize the police department when they threaten and scold their own children for misdeeds, but they think the year all right if it is someone else's who are subject to such treatment. This is one of the inconsistencies of human nature.

For years the railroad managers looked at the Interstate Commerce Commission as a harmless old body, and yet they began doing something and then they began howling with rage.

After all this delay it now looks as though there was going to be a real hot old campaign this spring after all. Perhaps the wish of the average politician is to be justified.

Rockefeller must consider his residence as a second Chicago university as he gives it very carefully another million dollar donation.

Baseball bugs have again begun to devour the sporting pages to learn the latest facts regarding the coming season and possibilities.

Paraguay might at least have waited for Mexico to get through before they started their latest revolution.

What Competition Has Done

The Rock County Telephone company began operations in June, 1899.
At that time the Bell had less than 400 phones in Janesville. Today there are over 3,422 phones in Janesville—more than 800% gain.
The Rock County Telephone company alone has over 550% more than the Bell had when competition began.
The telephone is a convenience. The greater the number of phones, the greater the convenience.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.)
BY WALT MARION.

I met a ragged beggar, and handed him a cent, and said: "Don't buy a keg or a tank of kerosene. Should you, in your living, expend this useful sum? I will make me bulk CHARITY at giving to others who may come. Don't waste in evil causes the cent I freely gave, but husband your resources, and like a man behave. One cent may grow to many, if not burned up or drunk; so do not blow your penny, but put it in the bank. I'll gladly give a dollar, but it would go for gin, and you would whomp an' holler, and cops would run you in. So take this cent and hoard it, and when you have a stack, and amply can afford it, perhaps you'll pay me back." I wish you'd become your jawhoner," the beggar said; "I've listened to your lecture until I'm nearly dead. One fact in me's been driven from Boston to Des Moines: The more of what that's given, the less there is of colic."

NINE SLAIN IN FIGHT

EIGHT INDIANS AND POLICEMAN FALL IN NEVADA FIGHT.

Redskins Open Fire on State Authorities and Kill One—Only Four Braves Left Alive.

Reno, Nov. 28.—In a battle 60 miles west of Tuscarora eight Indians and one policeman were killed and the other members of the Indian band were captured. The battle took place at Kelly creek, Humboldt county, 26 miles from Galena, in a northerly direction.

The Indian band, 12 in number, began the fight when the state police force came upon them. For three hours the battle raged. It ended only when 134 Hoyle of the state police force and eight of the Indians had been killed. Then the remaining four Indians surrendered. Not one of their band escaped.

The police had been trailing the Indians for a week, believing they were the murderers of four stockmen, whose bodies were found ten days ago in a desolate canyon on the eastern slopes of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

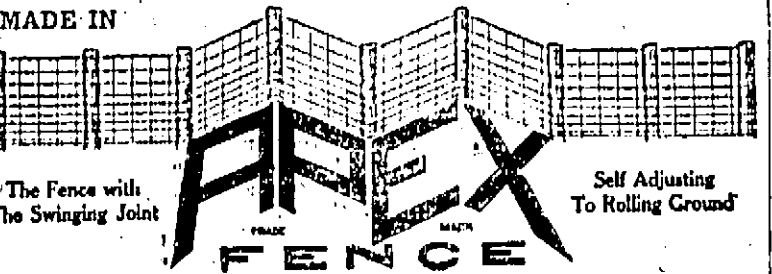

The victims' horses had been taken and ponies which had been ridden by the murderers were found shot near by, the outlaws apparently concluding their own stock too weak to keep up with them in their flight.

COLORADO FUEL CO. SUED BY NATION

Wickersham Seeks to Regain Land Worth $3,000,000.

ARRAIGNMENT IS SEVERE

Government Alleges That 5,800 Acres Containing Coal Was Obtained by Fraud, Deceit and Conspiracy.

Denver, Col., Feb. 28.—The immense holdings of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company in Las Animas county are attacked in a suit filed by Attorney General Wickersham in the federal court here. About 5,800 acres of the most valuable coal lands in the state, estimated to be worth $3,000,000 are involved.

The government asks that this land be returned to it, alleging it was obtained by fraud, deceit and conspiracy. The government is severe in defining the manner in which the Colorado Fuel & Iron and the Colorado Industrial company are alleged to have come into possession of the Las Animas coal fields.

Says Nation Was Deceived. "The government was misled, deceived and deceived," is the language used by the attorney general of the United States over his signature in defining the corporations' alleged manner of obtaining title. Mr. Wickersham, Thomas Ward, Jr., United States district attorney, and Harry E. Kelley, his assistant, both of whom worked up the evidence in the case, sign the papers as filed.

D. C. Heaman, retired, but formerly general counsel and secretary to the coal company, and Richard H. Hart, assistant secretary, are two of the names mentioned in the papers. George W. Benedict, Elijah P. Lee, James H. Lee, Alexander Bransford, John Bransford, E. H. Sopris and George W. Bowen are the others who are charged with having been the instruments through which fraudulent titles to the fields were obtained.

Words Are Not Mined. In the case of Benedict and Lee the government does not mine words, but openly charges that they used money to corrupt others and secure titles by warranty deeds.

The petition goes back to the time the Pike's Peak national forest reserve and the South Platte reserve were created. It alleges that at that time Benedict, Lee, Hye, Bransford and others entered land on the forest reserve for the defendant.

How Fraud Was Practiced. By the terms of the act of congress of June 4, 1907, which created the forest reserves, those holding land thereon were to be given land from the public domain that was non-mineral bearing in exchange. It is in the filing upon the coal

Three Americans are said to have done the work, which occupied them for six months, with the use of modern appliances. The thieves escaped in a gasoline launch.

The amount of money which the robbers secured cannot be definitely ascertained.

BOLD THIEVES ROB AN EXPRESS CAR

Cars Looted in Fast Run on Erie Road.

POLICE BAFLED BY MYSTERY

Detectives Fail to Find How Robbers Entered Sealed Coaches—Officials Reticent as to Amount of Booty Secured.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—Mysterious robbery of through fast express train No. 12 on the Erie railroad while it was running at top speed between New York and Chicago last Saturday is being investigated by secret service men of the Wells-Fargo Express company, which operates the express service on that railroad.

The loot, which may reach into the thousands of dollars, was reported to the Chicago office of the company, but so carefully was the robbery guarded that no report of the robbery was made to the police here, the express company preferring to use its own men until all clues were exhausted.

Cars Sealed in New York. The train, which was robbed, is made up of nothing but express cars and carries no passengers. Cars on the train are sealed in New York and the seals are not broken until they reach Chicago. In spite of these precautions when the train reached this city it was found that one of the cars had been broken into and a number of packages stolen. The contents of these packages are not known, although the local officials of the express company declared that no money was stolen.

In spite of the denial that money was stolen the first report of the robbery in Chicago was made to the money order department of the general offices here by telephone from the railroad station. Detectives in the employ of the company at once were called into consultation and made hurried examination of the car which had been entered.

Agent Tells of Robbery. "We have no idea how the robbers or robbers worked," said H. B. Calkins, general agent of the company in Chicago. "The first we know of the robbery was when the train reached here. I cannot say how much was taken, but I do not think the packages stolen were of any particular value. You see, that train doesn't carry much of great value. It is a solid through train, made up of express cars only."

Strict orders were placed on all employees not to talk of the robbery and inquiry of the men employed in the money order and other departments brought forth denials of any knowledge of a robbery.

REBELS CAPTURE TOWN

CIVILIANS ATTEMPT TO DEFEND FRONTIER BUT FAIL.

Details of Mexican Peace Overtures to Insurrectos Are Made Public at Washington.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Details of the overtures for peace made to the Mexican revolutionists through the juntas maintained by them at El Paso, Tex., and San Antonio, Tex., were made public by Dr. Vasquez Gomez, head of the confidential agency here of the revolutionary party.

Donter Gomez replied that as the representative of the revolutionist party he could not assume any responsibility for private negotiations, but would have to insist on seeing credentials from any peace envoy, and likewise that he be permitted to communicate with his chief, Francisco Madero.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 28.—The Mexican military commander ordered the regular schedule on the Mexican Northwestern railroad operating from Juarez south to Casa Grande and Pecos discontinued and commuted all cars to take south 500 soldiers and two field pieces. These men will try to bank Madero, who is supposed south of Juarez marching on Chihuahua, with 500 federals in his rear.

AUSTRALIA TO BAR TRUSTS

Government Announces Determination to Prevent Foreigners Getting a Foothold on Industries.

Melbourne, Australia, Feb. 28.—Australia served notice on the business world that it would not harbor foreign trusts. The following memorandum was given to the press by Sir R. W. Heat, minister of trade and customs:

"For several months it has been an open secret that representatives of the American meat trust have been visiting Australia, ostensibly with the object of extending its operations here. The government is determined to take immediate and drastic action to discourage and, if necessary, to prohibit its operations in Australia. It is not proposed to wait until the combine secures vested interests in this country. The action of the government will extend to trust operations in Australia, whether conducted directly or indirectly, and will not permit the repetition in Australia of the scandalous and merciless methods characterizing monopolies in other parts of the world."

Daring Escape Futile

For the first time in living memory a convict has escaped from Schluselburg fortress, in Russia. While working in the afternoon in the open air the convict scaled the wall with the aid of a rope, and subsequently, though chained, walked all night across the ice of Lake Ladoga toward Dugrovy Lighthouse. Early on the following morning the man was discovered by some peasants, and was seized and taken back to Schluselburg prison.

Daily Thought

WITNESS IN COLLAPSE

WOMAN SUING MILLIONAIRE WALLING FAINTS ON STAND.

Miss Grunspan, After Denouncing Opposing Counsel, Is Carried to Anteroom in Hysterical Condition.

New York, Feb. 28.—The trial of the $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Miss Anna Bertha Grunspan against William English Walling, a millionaire Socialist author, came to an unexpected and dramatic climax in the supreme court through the denunciation of the pretty plaintiff. "Liar!" she shrieked, starting forward in the witness chair. "This woman lies. How much did you give her to come here and appear against me? You are torturing me. Oh, you—this is terrible. I can't stand it! I cannot! Oh, honorable court, arrest me!"

test me!

Moaning and sobbing out her charges of condemnation for Walling's lawyer and witnesses, the fair, young girl, who has told her tale of blighted affection, fainted in her chair and was carried to an anteroom. "He is buying those people to come here against me," she exclaimed, as soon as friends had revived her with the aid of water and smelling salts. Miss Grunspan's mother rushed toward the counsel table where Walling and his wife were seated, but she was prevented by court officers from reaching the table. After Miss Grunspan was quieted the trial was resumed. Miss Grunspan's sudden storm of indignation resulted from her cross-examination by Emil E. Fuchs, counsel for Walling. The lawyer brought her face to face with a man and woman who are alleged to know of things that are detrimental to the girl's character.

All the Rugs Used In This Magnificent Building Are the Whittall Anglo Persian

No stronger endorsement of the quality and artistic excellence of Whittall's Rugs could be given than the fact that WHITTALL ANGLO PERSIAN RUGS HAVE BEEN CHOSEN FOR THE UNITED STATES SENATE OFFICE BUILDING in competition with all the best American rug products.

In furnishing it the authorities were anxious to obtain the best the country produces in rugs. They were equally anxious to give the manufacturer a chance to show and explain the merits of his fabrics and the result was that the marble room at the Capitol held a great array of the leading American rug products when the bids were opened.

The WHITTALL ANGLO-PERSIAN was the rug finally decided upon, the commission evidently preferring its quality and close silky appearance to all other rugs.

The examination was most thorough, going into every detail, showing that the Anglo-Persian rug was selected after the most careful consideration.

Whittall Anglo-Persian Rugs are made in stock sizes from 22½x36 inches up to 11-3x15 feet and in special sizes of almost any dimension.

Besides the Anglo-Persian we have other Whittall rugs, embracing Body Brussels, Royal Worcester, Anglo-Indian, and Lenox Bath Rugs.

It is generally known that these same rugs sell for more money in Chicago or Milwaukee than in Janesville.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

A FEW weeks ago I wrote a little talk about a woman who was too busy keeping her house distressingly immaculate to keep herself even decently so, and whose husband, being but human, consequently noticed the contrast between the latterly looking woman at home and the dainty and well groomed young woman in his office.

A few days later my postman brought me these two letters.

The first, after some preliminary—
"I think you did an injustice to all three in this case, the wife, the husband and the stenographer. To compare a wife with family cares and household work to attend to with a fresh young girl who has no care, only to get her puffs on straight and her waists fitting neatly, and to be on time at the office, is what I consider an injustice, and there are still quite a few good men who have call to employ a stenographer and are not as Mr. B. Also there are many in Mr. B's shoes who cannot blame their wife's dressing squalor or white-you-wait hair either."

"Now I don't want to side with women who are never neat and wholesome but I do say this, it is unfair as well as uncharitable to condemn a wife when we have only the evidence of what Mr. Next-door has seen. Two to one she is only jealous because Mrs. B. happens to be the best housekeeper."

"And another thing I will say and that is after twenty years of married life, nine out of ten men would rather have their children well cared for, the house in good order and a good, substantial, well-cooked meal when it is time that all the puffs and latest styles brought out for women."

Says the second—
"I want to thank you for your talk of last evening. It told my story exactly. But—presto change—that is all different now. I have learned my lesson."

"Perhaps my solution of the problem may be of use to someone else. I find that it costs no more to dress prettily and neatly while working about the house than it does to wear a mother-hubbard wrapper and an unlavishly apron. At almost any dry goods store one may purchase pretty little house-dresses that both wash and fit perfectly for $1.58. They come in nearly every color and material. The plain blue chambrays and black and white percales are especially pretty and durable and are piped with contrasting materials."

"Then, instead of gingham for aprons I choose percale to correspond with my dresses and make them with a high protecting bib and wide skirt. One apron requires three yards of material."

"It is surprising how much neat work one can do and how much longer pretty dresses and aprons keep clean."

"Don't say this isn't practical. It is. I have done it for several years and I do every bit of my own work."

Which letters lead to show that "You can please some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can't please all of the people all the time."

NOT MODEL NOW—MISS DOROTHY MCKEE, LEADER IN THE PHILADELPHIA STRIKE.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The striking models are in confusion today over the loss of their militant leader, Dorothy McKee. Miss McKee's parents did not know she was a model until she took charge of the fight to force higher wages, and now she isn't a model any more.

"You see," the girl explained tearfully, "my parents are of the old school. They could not realize that when I am posing I am immaculate and that the artists copying my lines do so only from an artistic standpoint. Well, I suppose the girls will have to keep on posing for anything they can get."

NOT ON THE BARGAIN COUNTER

Things that are really worth while are never put on the bargain counter. Just a little wail of a thought straying around looking for home. Surely it must have found in the mind of some earnest person.

"The things that are really worth while are never put on the bargain counter." That is, their price or their value is never lowered. And education is one of the worth while things that are never put on the bargain counter. The price is the same from year to year. It costs just as much in effort and concentration as it ever did to get an education. One to be educated cannot work today and play tomorrow. And, besides, education doesn't mean mastering a few rules and a few books under the direction of a teacher. It means being observant, being instructed every moment of our lives in our contact with others, by our environment and the influences that come into our lives. It means having the mind quickened and receptive to the best of others and creative of its own ideas. It means a mind trained to use the material gathered from every association and every influence to the very best advantage of the individual and of society.

Love—the real, best type of love—is never found on the bargain counter. It is just as dear today as it was at the beginning. It costs just as much as it ever did and it demands just as much. The ideal love is like a rare vase, costly, but worth all the sacrifice and the patience demanded to get it.

Friendship costs just as much as it ever did and, therefore, no less valuable as a human association than it was when men first began to mingle together and to find interest and incentive in the company of each other.

The education that does not uplift the education that does not inspire,

Five Good Recipes.

Egg Relish.—In a skillet fry out two slices of salt pork cut in cubes; in this brown a cupful of bread cut in cubes. Add an equal amount of cold potatoes cut in dice and when brown add two eggs slightly beaten. Heat slowly, stirring until the eggs are cooked. This makes a nice breakfast or supper dish.

Ponchee.—This dish is much like the old-fashioned scrapple. Use a piece of pot roast uncooked, about two pounds. Grind it fine through the meat chopper, add two quarts of water and two cups of corn meal stirred in, and season with salt and pepper. Cook slowly two hours. Pour out into a long tin to cool and was out in slices and fried brown, for breakfast.

Egg Omelet.—To half a cup of water add the thirty-pared rinds of an orange and lemon. Allow them to remain for half an hour. Squeeze the juice of an orange and lemon into a cup, fill it up with cold water, add to it a tablespoonful of gelatin and stir over the fire until quite hot, but not boiling. Remove from fire and cool, then add a well-beaten egg. Pour into a mold and turn out when set.

Concord Cream.—This is one of the most attractive of desserts, as it is, when nicely made, of a most charming color. Mix a pint of cream, a cup and a half of grape juice, a half of a cup of sugar and lemon juice to taste. The lemon juice brings out the color of the grape as well as the flavor. Freeze and serve in tall glasses garnished with sweetened whipped cream and chopped pistachio nuts.

Eggs, Waldorf Style.—Arrange poached eggs on buttered toast and surround with brown mushroom sauce and place a broiled mushroom cap on each egg.

A Suggestive Title.

He—I wonder what the meaning of that picture is? The youth and maiden are in a tender attitude.

She—Oh, don't you see? He has just asked her to marry him and she is accepting him. How sweet! What does the artist call the picture?

He (looking about)—Oh, I see. It's written on a card at the bottom—"Sold."—Lippincott's.

WAS A REAL "STOP WATCH."

He was a newly appointed constable in the rural districts and he had come all the way to town to find the watchmaker who had sold him a faulty timepiece.

"But what's the matter with the watch?" asked the watchmaker in all innocence.

"Matter?" drawled the old man. "By Heck, this watch stops every few minutes."

The watchmaker came from behind the counter and patted his dissatisfied customer on the shoulder.

"My dear man," he whispered, "you have just been made a constable, haven't you?"

"That's what I be," was the proud response.

"And you expect to arrest motorists for speeding?"

"You bet I do."

"Well, how can you time automobiles without a stop watch? Go home and thank your stars you own one."

And the old man was so puzzled he walked out of the watchmaker's and forgot the address.

LIGHT DINNER.

Cornelius V. Collins, the brilliant criminologist and superintendent of New York state prisons, narrated at a dinner in Troy some reminiscences of his interesting work.

"A clever criminal of gluttonous proclivities," he said, "once couched a complaint in rather neat terms."

"My inspector, entering the man's cell one day, found it very hot and stuffy."

"Why have you got your ventilator closed?" he asked.

"The burly and gluttonous prisoner answered plaintively:

"Well, inspector, yer honor, last time I had the ventilator open a waup flow in, you see, and carried off my dinner while my back was turned."

Future of Cheesemaking.

Cheesemakers of the next century, maybe sooner, will have a seed germ laboratory attached to their factory, in which pure cultures of the cheese bacteria, germs responsible for the flavor of each kind of cheese, will be grown and nursed, and instead of fromage de Bre, Stillon or Gorgonzola, coming from different parts of the world, they will all be turned out from one factory, and no telling how cheap.

New York's Immense Debt.

New York City owes one-half as much money as the combined indebtedness of the twenty-seven next largest cities in the country.

Thoughtless Annie

As the black laundress sat down at her first luncheon in the kitchen she gazed at the girl bride in open admiration.

"Tain't right fo' de likes of you to wait on me," she protested. "Don't you nevah set no table fo' me again. You say you jus' start in housekeeping?"

"My! You do battah'n me!" said the woman. "Take Miss Adams down on the second flo'. You could give hah lessons."

"Do you know her, Annie?" the girl bride demanded in surprise. "She had been at some trouble to find a laundress who should be a stranger to every one in the building."

"Oh, yes'm, Ah used to wash fo' Miss Adams, but, my! Ah 'trow down that place!"

The girl bride took note of this remark. She had never lived in a flat before, but she had extremely definite theories as to how it should be done.

"Help yourself to more coffee when you wish it, Annie," was what she said, after a pause.

"Yes'm. Thank you'm. Now, that's jus' a sample. Ah like fo' folks to treat me human. Miss Adams, she'd give me the most odacious washin'—like to kill me! Ah tol' hah so to hah face. Nevah talk 'bout nobody behind' they back. Ah'm right out! But the reason I finally 'trow down the place was the petticoat."

She waited, and the bride, being flesh and blood, repeated, "The petticoat?"

"Yes'm. Laco-trimmed. She missed it, an' she guessed Ah had it, an' it made hah feel's. Then she foun' it, right wah she put it hahsef—stuffed in a pantry draw un'or the dish towel! That's the kin' o' housekeeping, she does. Tell you, mis', a nice, neat housekeeper like you'll hol' up yo' hah to see how Miss Adams runs things. Well, Ah's untillly had a sho lunch, but nex' time Ah'm sho' goin' to wait on mysef."

That evening the girl bride confided to the young husband that Annie was a treasure.

"Of course I don't attach too much weight to what she says of this Mrs. Adams," she added, charitably, "but it's well to go slow, and I shan't be too cordial when she calls. As for Annie, she's so willing to wait on herself I believe I'll join that lunch club, even if it does cost me my washing."

You know I've always said I wasn't going to let my housekeeping rule me the way mamma does."

For several weeks after that things moved like a story book. Annie came regularly to wash and iron in the empty flat, while the bride, absent at her all-day club, regaled her friends with tales of her own good management.

Then a cloud appeared—no bigger than a visiting card. Five weeks had passed and nobody in the building had attempted to call on the bride, either through the front door or the back.

Not that she cared—if all the people were like that slovenly Mrs. Adams! Still it was odd, and that Mrs. Logan on the first floor looked so nice!

A step sounded on the porch and some one knocked. The dreaded back-door caller had come at last—and in the form of the despised Mrs. Adams!

"Ah!" said the girl bride in the icy manner she had been saving for back-door callers. "Walk right through to the parlor."

But Mrs. Adams seemed reluctant. "I came," she said, "to talk to you about Annie, the laundress. I feel sure you don't know what she's doing on washing day while you're away."

"I beg your pardon," was the indignant response. "I find everything done exactly as I wish it on my return."

"But do you know where she gets her luncheon?"

"Here in my kitchen, with my permission."

"There! I told them you didn't know. She's been going from family to family in the building, asking for lunch and telling a pitiful tale of how you go to your club and leave her with nothing in the house to eat, and—"

"What!" The bride was gasping at astonishment.

"In the morning she goes to Mary Cameron, Mr. Ferris' housekeeper, for her cup of coffee, and the way she talks about your housekeeping is scandalous. She has told everyone about that petticoat you missed—"

"Petticoat!"

"Yes, and how you found it in a pantry drawer."

The girl bride dumbly stared. Then she giggled. Five minutes later she and Mrs. Adams were laughing together like chums.

The next morning Annie was due, and to her surprise, her young mistress met her, looking like an avenging angel.

"Annie," she demanded, "where have you been getting your lunches the days I've been gone?"

Annie's eyes rolled swiftly. "Lan's sake!" she exclaimed in disgust. "Them injun givahs been talkin'—ah! they urged me to eat in their kitchens till I was plum mortified to refuse!"

"How dared you go and tell that petticoat story about me?"

Annie looked positively tender. "Ioney," she said in her mellow tones, "everybody makes mistakes. Ah disremember tellin' that petticoat yahn 'bout you, but if I did, it was careless, honey—jus' carelessness an' thoughtlessness, that's all it was!"

PRETTY WEDDING ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Fredricka M. Affeldt of Newville, Becomes Bride of William C. Dallman in Lutheran Church, Edgerton.

(Special to the Gazette.) Edgerton, Feb. 27.—Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the German Lutheran church occurred the marriage of William C. Dallman of this city and Miss Fredricka M. Affeldt of Newville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Spillman in the presence of a large assembly of relatives and invited guests.

After the ceremony the assembly proceeded to the farm home of the bride, Mrs. Albertine Affeldt, where the newly wed were tendered a reception followed by an elaborate spread. The festive occasion was a most joyous one and the afternoon and evening passed only too soon. Both bride and groom were born and raised in Edgerton and have scores of friends who join in hearty congratulations. For the present they will make their home with the bride's mother and in the spring they will take up their home on a farm in this vicinity.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE WORST BOY.

It was "the worst boy in town." One day the worst boy and some of the others were engaged in some sort of expedition along the river bank.

As they passed a bridge the forlorn "meow" of a cat was prolonged into a cry almost human.

It was an appeal for help. The gang paused. Over on one of the low stone piers upon which the steel structure was reared was a lone pussy sending up its Macedonian cry.

The poor thing had climbed down the skeleton steel plates to the pier and did not have sense enough to climb back. Marooned and despairing, it sent out its wail.

Somehow the piteous plea got under the ragged jacket of the worst boy.

The water was cold, and he knew it, but he began to take off his shoes and stockings and roll up his trousers.

"Aw, Bill," said one, "I wouldn't go after that cat. It'll get off all right. Let it go."

To which said Bill in his righteous wrath:

"Will you big siffs keep your blamed mouths shut? I'm doin' this, and I know what I'm doin', and don't you forget it."

The worst boy waded in and got the cat, which, in terror lest it be thrown into the water, yowled and scratched unmercifully.

"Throw it in the river, Bill. All cats can swim."

Halfway out, the worst boy stopped, bent a fixed and ominous look on the speaker that caused a sudden silence and then waded out with the cat.

Which proves—that?

Why, it proves what Dickens said—that there is a way to every heart. The worst boy had the biggest heart of all the gang, and the cat found the way to it.

Do you wonder that Garfield said he always felt like taking off his hat to a boy of the street because of the possibilities under the ragged jacket.

Garfield also said—

That our society is not like the society of Europe, which is like the strata of the earth—each layer holding the one beneath it down—but is rather like the waves of the sea, "where the lowest drop may rise and gladden on the topmost wave."

Many a "worst boy in town" has risen from the depths to distinction.

THE MAN WITH A TOUPEE.

Might Have Had A Good Head of Hair.

The man who wears a toupee does not like it, but has the courage of his convictions.

Nature never intended that the top of the head should be left entirely without protection. A bald head is very susceptible to contraction of colds and neuralgia. Wearing an artificial top piece counteracts this tendency, and, aside from the improvement in the personal appearance, is amply justified.

How much better it would have been had the man, now chronically bald and wearing a toupee, but realized earlier in life the approaching danger and devoted a little regular attention to his hair, which would have saved it.

AN EARLY SPRING IS THE PREDICTION

In Spite of The Forecasted Cold Wave Professor Gilman of Ripon College is Optimistic.

Regardless of the fact that the weather man has predicted a cold wave and has postponed the coming of spring for an indefinite period, Prof. A. F. Gilman, head of the Chemistry and geology departments at Ripon College, remains firm in his belief that the season of flowers and sunshine is not far off. This is taken to be a warning to housewives to prepare for the spring coming, and to farmers to get ready for the work of planting.

This belief, from one who speaks with authority is a very pleasant announcement and it is only hoped that we will not be disappointed by the return of winter with its snows and blizzards as was the case last season. Professor Gilman, however, speaks with conviction and says that the recent mild weather has driven most of the frost out of the ground and unless there is unusually severe weather due within the next week or so, farmers may be sure that planting will come earlier than for some time past. He says further:

"I find that on the level areas there is some frost but on the slopes it has entirely left the ground. Of course the sun has no effect on the ground in the north that is covered with snow, but the snow is also protecting and a little ground from freezing deeply, and it is the mild weather early in the spring will put the ground in good condition for the farmers."

"In all probability there will be slight snow flurries, and probably one or two good snow storms during March and April, but they will be of little consequence and as the weather is certain to become milder and whatever cold spells we do endure will be of short duration, the tillers of the soil will be able to get an early start."

"Last year there was practically no frost in the ground during the winter; found by investigation that the average was not over six inches deep, and when the snow went off in the spring the farmers began immediate work on their land."

"However, the conditions during the last winter have been such as to favor the life of many injurious insects, and when the warm spring days set in, these will doubtless begin to multiply rapidly and will need of the farmers to keep them from devastating the crops."

There is also danger of a frost, such as was experienced last year, following the early warm weather, after the buds have developed, causing a heavy frost loss all over the northwest. Judiciously, however, that the weather will remain sufficiently cold to prevent the germination of the seeds until the proper time for them to start to grow."

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

Milton Junction, Feb. 25, 1911. Editor Gazette—

A little more of my experience along the line of carp. Along in the eighties I asked the state fish hatchery at Madison, for some carp to put in Clear and Green lakes. At the same time I asked for some pike and bass of these kind of fish and Charles Foster also received some pike and bass which he placed in Clear Lake. This lake also contained some Silver Shiners and these with the other fish grew despite the introduction of the carp. W. A. Pad and C. M. Garthwaite caught between 30 and 40 pike and put them in Clear Lake. In a few years we had plenty of pike and the shiners were lined with the young of this breed from four to ten inches in length. The carp did not eat the spawn but a few hard winters were responsible for the death and disappearance of the fish.
